

INTRODUCTION OF THE ANTICAPITALIST CAMP

In July, twenty of those who profit the most from the global capitalist system meet to make sure that their world remains governable. We want to take this as an occasion to build a large anticapitalist protest camp in Stadtpark. We will take the space, that is taken from us by capitalist everyday life and its capitalist logic ever more often - whether we play by their rules or not.

We want to create a place that is an expression of protest itself. A place that suggests an alternative to capitalist everyday life that the G20 represent: a place free of antisemitism, sexism, nationalism, racism and other discriminating and authoritarian behavior we encounter day to day. A place where people can exchange, network and learn from each other across the spectrum.

This is also how the camp should work: self-organized and without tying participation to an assumed benefit. We respect the difference of forms of expression and action and thus want to create a space that is open for everyone - this explicitly includes people, groups and structures that don't fundamentally define themselves as anticapitalist.

Everyone who wants to live and shape a life in solidarity and cooperation. We can provide the infrastructure for cooperation, but the camp will be an open space that lives from the everyone's collaboration.

The Camp is what you make out of it.

Current information and news:

g20camp.noblogs.org

INTRODUCTION OF THE ANTICAPITALIST CAMP

In July, twenty of those who profit the most from the global capitalist system meet to make sure that their world remains governable. We want to take this as an occasion to build a large anticapitalist protest camp in Stadtpark. We will take the space, that is taken from us by capitalist everyday life and its capitalist logic ever more often - whether we play by their rules or not.

We want to create a place that is an expression of protest itself. A place that suggests an alternative to capitalist everyday life that the G20 represent: a place free of antisemitism, sexism, nationalism, racism and other discriminating and authoritarian behavior we encounter day to day. A place where people can exchange, network and learn from each other across the spectrum.

This is also how the camp should work: self-organized and without tying participation to an assumed benefit. We respect the difference of forms of expression and action and thus want to create a space that is open for everyone - this explicitly includes people, groups and structures that don't fundamentally define themselves as anticapitalist.

Everyone who wants to live and shape a life in solidarity and cooperation. We can provide the infrastructure for cooperation, but the camp will be an open space that lives from the everyone's collaboration.

The Camp is what you make out of it.

Current information and news:

g20camp.noblogs.org

Contact:

info-g20camp
@riseup.net

To get all of this going, we need money - because even those who fight capitalism are subject to the rules of the capitalist system...

Donate to:

Jugend in der Welt
e.V.
IBAN: DE14 6225
0030 0001
8117 31
BIC: SOL ADESHHA
SUBJECT (important!):
"Camp"

So we ask all of you:

- ▶ organize concerts, parties, bar nights
- ▶ raise money from organizations affiliated to you
- ▶ collectively plan a Barrio to support the camp's structure
- ▶ provide materials such as tents, technical equipment, cars, tables, sheets for banners, etc.
- ▶ spread the word!

Contact:

info-g20camp
@riseup.net

To get all of this going, we need money - because even those who fight capitalism are subject to the rules of the capitalist system...

Donate to:

Jugend in der Welt
e.V.
IBAN: DE14 6225
0030 0001
8117 31
BIC: SOL ADESHHA
SUBJECT (important!):
"Camp"

So we ask all of you:

- ▶ organize concerts, parties, bar nights
- ▶ raise money from organizations affiliated to you
- ▶ collectively plan a Barrio to support the camp's structure
- ▶ provide materials such as tents, technical equipment, cars, tables, sheets for banners, etc.
- ▶ spread the word!

